Pitching in to clean up Lane Cove National Park

Frasers Property volunteers look forward to Clean Up Australia Day

Sydney – 16 February 2017 – Around 50 volunteers from Frasers Property Australia will roll up their sleeves at Lane Cove National Park to help beautify one of Sydney's natural jewels for Business Clean Up Australia Day on Tuesday February 28.

From 9am to 2pm, the volunteers will join local conservation group Friends of Lane Cove National Park (LCNP) and park rangers to remove rubbish along the Lane Cove River, including an old glass bottle dumping ground.

Volunteers will also be flexing their muscles to remove the giant Arundo donax reed that has unfortunately encroached on the park in recent times.

Lane Cove National Park is near Frasers Property's Centrale community in North Ryde and as such was a natural focus when it came to this year's Clean Up Australia Day, says Olivia Leal-Walker, Sustainability Coordinator, Frasers Property Australia.

"The places we create are not just made of concrete and steel. We pride ourselves on creating communities that celebrate and respond to the natural environment and at Centrale, Lane Cove National Park offers a stunning natural backdrop for residents of the new community to enjoy," Ms Leal-Walker says.

"But as with everything precious, we need to take the time to care for what we have, so we look forward to pitching in and helping with the ongoing management program for the park. We're leading by example, showing the benefits of being among and protecting nature, to encourage a healthy and active lifestyle for our residents at Centrale.

"Friends of Lane Cove National Park do a tremendous job and we're proud to support their efforts in maintaining this beautiful heartland of Sydney. We have worked closely with the local group to ensure our volunteers make a real difference on the day," she says.

Tony Butteriss, President of Friends of LCNP says, "We're happy when businesses show their support for the local environment by working with us. In this case Frasers Property's Centrale is right on the doorstep of the park, which will be a major asset for everyone who lives there, and we hope to build a lasting association with Centrale residents in the future."

Journalists and photographers are welcome to attend Business Clean Up Australia Day at Lane Cove National Park on Tuesday February 28. A big thank you goes out to Bingo Bins which will provide all the volunteers with a well earned barbecue lunch on the day.

Lane Cove National Park is just a short walk to Frasers Property's Centrale community in North Ryde.

Centrale will incorporate 380 contemporary residences across four buildings with a mix of one, two and three bedroom apartments. The premium apartments will feature open plan designs for seamless indoor-outdoor living, with many boasting panoramic views out to the Sydney city skyline, Chatswood and beyond. The community, now under construction, will welcome its first residents in the second half of this year.

The Centrale Sales Centre and Display Suite is located at Building A, 12 Julius Avenue, and is open 7 days a week from 11am to 5pm. For further information, visit www.centraleapartments.com.au, Facebook.com/centraleapartments, call 13 38 38 or visit www.centraleapartments.com.au.
