Western Sydney local Wayne Game honoured at Fairwater 6 Star Green Star community honours former Frasers Property employee

Sydney – 22 November 2017 – Wayne Game Reserve has been officially opened by Frasers Property Australia at Fairwater in Blacktown, in honour of one of its long-serving employees, the late Mr Wayne Game.

Now everyone can relax in the picturesque reserve which complements the natural parklands and green spaces that characterise the Fairwater community.

The official opening event was attended by the late Mr Game's wife Sue and family, Blacktown City Deputy Mayor Tony Bleasdale and members of the Fairwater community.

Wayne was part of the Frasers Property (formerly Australand) team as National Safety Manager between 2004 to 2014. He helped establish Frasers Property's safety management system and then oversaw the embedding of safety as the key priority for the organisation.

Wayne had a tremendous passion to promote safety in the workplace, the energy to convince people that there was always a better way, and an authentic, engaging style which endeared him to site workers and senior managers alike.

Raymond Baksmati, Development Director, Frasers Property Australia says Frasers Property is honoured to mark Wayne's contribution in this way.

"Wayne was passionate in his work life and community work in western Sydney so dedicating this open space to his memory and sharing this occasion with his family and friends gives us great pleasure," says Mr Baksmati.

"Fairwater has a 6 Star Green Star Communities rating and has been recognised as a leader in terms of innovation, sustainability and excellence in urban development. We feel it's a very appropriate location to celebrate Wayne's contribution because it reflects all the qualities he brought to our organisation and the community of western Sydney," he says.

Wayne's wife Sue Game joined the ceremony and said her husband was well loved and respected by all who knew him.

"The community came together, and we are honoured as a family to have taken part in the official opening. We will enjoy this special moment for many years to come," says Sue.

Fairwater received the Urban Development Institute of Australia (UDIA) Award for Excellence in Masterplanned Communities at its 2017 NSW awards and won UDIA's 2017 National Award for Excellence in Residential Development.

Set on a 38.5-hectare former golf course and boasting more than nine hectares of open space, Fairwater offers picturesque landscaped surroundings, lakes and ponds, boardwalks, walkways and pramways, playground, water play area and learn-to-ride bike track.

More than 500 people already call Fairwater home and enjoy the benefits of living in a connected community just 1km from Blacktown CBD and railway station.

The Fairwater Display Village and Sales Centre is open seven days a week between 11am and 4pm. Visit www.fairwaterliving.com.au or call 13 38 38 for more information.
