

Frasers Property Industrial moves to new European Head Office in Amsterdam to support its growth strategy

- ◆ To strengthen its position as one of the leading multi-national industrial space providers, Frasers Property Industrial aims to grow its European portfolio

AMSTERDAM, 1 DECEMBER 2020

On 1 February 2021, Frasers Property Industrial will move its European Head Office to Zuidas, the business district in the south of Amsterdam, to accommodate the company's expansion plans.

Frasers Property Industrial in Europe has focus markets in the Netherlands, Germany and Austria and aims to grow its portfolio in these markets. As a multi-national owner, developer and manager of industrial property, Frasers Property Industrial's portfolio holds 56 properties in continental Europe. The company strives to strengthen its position as one of the leading global industrial space providers through strategic acquisitions and the development of its own assets.

Alexander Heubes, Frasers Property Industrial's Managing Director, Europe, comments: "Our new office will contribute to the further success of Frasers Property Industrial's business and growth strategy in Europe. I see our new location as another important milestone for our success story. We see an increased demand for industrial space in Europe, particularly in the e-commerce and last mile logistics sectors, which provides us with ample opportunities for further growth in our key markets."

The new Frasers Property Industrial Amsterdam head office is located in the 1000 Mahler building, which BREEAM has certified as "Excellent" in terms of sustainability.
